Holiday events include festivals, rodeos, parades

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Fourth of July Holiday Weekend offers a variety of special events to Gulf Coast residents and visitors.

Two church-sponsored fairs are set this weekend. At 301 Necaise Avenue in Bay St. Louis, St. Rose de Lima Church is sponsoring "A Fair of the Heart" July 2 and 3. The event features entertainment, a variety of food and game booths and softball and tennis tournaments. Information on the tennis tournament is available from Myron Labat, 467-3732, or Brian Labat, 467-5274.

The other church-sponsored event is Our Lady of the Gulf's annual Crab Festival at US-90 and Beach Boulevard near the foot of the Bay Bridge. A variety of seafood booths will be featured along with other food items, flea market, crafts, games, musical entertainment and a fireworks display at the four day event, which begins daily at noon July 1-4. The fireworks are scheduled for 9 p.m. July 3.

Fishermen young and old can participate in either of two fishing rodeos, the annual Mississippi Deep Sea Fishing Rodeo and the fourth annual American Legion Post 139 Children's Fishing Rodeo.

The children's rodeo is Saturday with scales open from 7 a.m. until 3 p.m. Children 13 and under may enter for pier and shore fishing only. There will be no admission charge for the event, which will be headquartered at the American Legion Veteran's Memorial Pier at Washington Street.

The pier itself and its boat launch will be closed to the general public from 6 a.m. until 4 p.m. for the event.

The deep sea fishing rodeo is billed as "The World's Largest Fishing Rodeo" and is staged from the Gulfport Small Craft Harbor July 1-4. Categories include deep sea, spear and freshwater fishing and there is no registration charge. Fishermen may register at local fish camps, bait shops and other fishing-related businesses or by telephone at 863-2713.

History enthusiasts will also have their choice of two events.

At 10 a.m. Saturday, Waveland will continue its 1988 centennial celebration with dedication of a new flag custom-designed for the Hospitality City. Mayor John Longo Jr. will be speaker at the event, which will be in front of the city hall on Coleman Avenue.

On Monday, Pass Christian will celebrate its 150th birthday at War Memorial Park. The ceremony begins at 4 p.m. and will be highlighted by the "return" of the city's first mayor, Finley B. Hiern, to be portrayed by a local attorney, Holt Montgomery.

The event will also feature music and a children's parade and is sponsored by the Pass Christian Historical Society and the Cecil R. Ruddock Post 5931 Veterans of Foreign Wars and its Ladies Auxiliary.

Holiday events also include a walking parade through Clermont Harbor beginning at 1 p.m. at Joe Levy's house and ending in front of Garcia's Grocery.

There are also two private boat parades that restrict entries to members of their community associations. One begins at 2 p.m. Saturday in Jourdan River Shores and the other begins at noon Sunday at Skyline Drive in Garden Isle.

Banks, savings and loans and government offices will all be closed Monday.

The regular meeting of the Hancock County Board of Supervisors will be moved to 9 a.m. Tuesday because the courthouse will be closed Monday.

Bay St. Louis City Hall will be closed, but there will be no change in the garbage collection schedule.

Waveland City Hall is also closed Monday, with no garbage collection that day. Monday collections are moved to Tuesday and Tuesday collections are moved to Wednesday. There will be no collection of trash on Wednesday.

Banks and loan institutions closed Monday include Merchants, Hancock, Gulf National, Eastover and Peoples Federal.

The Sea Coast Echo will also be closed Monday.

NATIVE BEAUTY—The blossom of the southern magnolia (Magnolia grandiflora) has become a symbol so synonymous with the South that it is now considered a cliché. But, regardless of the considerations of man, pure in its natural beauty, the magnolia remains undiminished. The magnolia, Mississippi's state flower and tree, is found throughout the south. The peak period of bloom in our area is April through June, but blossoms may occur any time between March and October. (Echo staff photo by D.C. Harvill)

Pass to mark sesquicentennial

BY DENA BISNETTE

Pass Christian will celebrate its 150th anniversary Monday with a 4 p.m. ceremony at War Memorial Park.

The ceremony will be highlighted by the "return" of the city's first mayor, Finley B. Hiern.

The ceremony is being sponsored by Pass Christian Historical Society and Cecil R. Ruddock Post 5931 Veterans of Foreign Wars and its ladies auxiliary unit. The event is being coordinated by Pat Mowrey and Bill Mowrey, historical society members.

Additional features of the event, which will also commemorate the 212th birthday of the United States, will include a children's parade with free flags and balloons, music by the Pass Christian High School Band and several speakers including Mayor J.W. Erwin.

According to Pat Mowrey, a spokesperson for the historical society, about seven of Hiern's descendants have been located and are invited to the ceremony. None have been found in the Pass Christian area and most are living out of state.

Holt Montgomery, an attorney who resides in Pass Christian and has a master's degree in history, will play the part of Hiern, complete with 1838-style frock coat and top hat.

Hiern is going to give a speech written by Don Costa, which will include some information about Hiern himself as well as a short history of the city.

Although Montgomery has become interested in the history of Pass Christian since moving there, he knew little about Hiern except his name before he began researching his part.

"I discovered that Finley Bodam Hiern was quite a remarkable character," he explained.

Montgomery's homework on his part has revealed that Hiern was chosen to be the town's recorder in 1838, a position that pre-existed the office of mayor and eventually evolved into that post.

Hiern was a successful sawmill owner and had his own pier in the Pitcher Point area.

"He sold timber to the ships coming out of New Orleans," Montgomery said.

Hiern had retired from public life by the time the War Between the States occurred and Montgomery has found little information on what he did during the war other than that his house on the beach, which was probably in the downtown area, sustained shelling from U.S. Navy ships.

After the civil war, Pass Christian had some trouble with carpetbaggers who tried to take over the local government as well as with corruption among the politicians who were able to remain in office after the war.

"Some of the citizens went down and dragged poor old Finley B. Hiern out of retirement at age 75 and made him mayor again. He apparently served a couple of more terms," Montgomery added.

According to Montgomery, that retirement was political only. Local history indicates that Hiern lived a long and active life, continuing to operate the sawmill into his old age.

The city's first mayor had a death that reflected his lifestyle, Montgomery added. Hiern was killed trying to help somebody else.

According to Montgomery, Hiern was crushed to death at the age of 85 when he tried to rescue a worker caught in some of the mill machinery and became caught himself.

Mrs. Montgomery will also make remarks at the event, costumed as Hiern's wife.

The public is invited to attend the ceremony, which will close with a light music concert by the Pass Christian High School Band, Mowrey said.

Clermont Harbor parade set Saturday

BY D.C. HARVILL

Clermont Harbor will hold its 10th annual Fourth of July Marching Parade on Saturday July 2nd.

The parade will begin at 1 p.m. at the home of Joe Levy on Poinsett Street. The parade route will be Poinsett to Guinard Street, then Guinard to Railroad Avenue then to Bordage Street and then along First Street to Ioor Street and up to Clermont Boulevard then right to Forest Street where it will stop at Harold and Lillian's Bar. From Harold and Lillian's the parade goes to Garcia's Grocery where it will disband.

This year's parade is dedicated to the memory of William J. Howard, affectionately known as the Mayor of Clermont Harbor, who died in March.

Howard, originally from New Orleans, had spent time in Clermont Harbor for over 50 years, the last 28 of which he spent as a resident of the community.

Myrtis Broussard, a spokesman for the parade said Howard was well known for his service to the community and to St. Ann's Catholic Church.

"This is the last parade that he will have had anything to do with," Broussard said, "So we just wanted to dedicate it to him because he did so much for Clermont Harbor."

The parade was founded and is conducted every year by the Old Forester Marching and Social Club from New Orleans.

Donations needed for safety device

BY D.C. HARVILL

To save lives and property, firemen are called upon on a daily basis to put their own lives in jeopardy.

In an attempt to minimize the hazards to local fire fighters, the Hancock County Firefighter's Association is calling on all individuals and businesses in the county for donations to be used for the purchase of a High Pressure Filling Station that can fill firemen's Self Contained Breathing Apparatuses.

This would allow all firemen at all fires and other hazardous breathing situations to be equipped with one of the apparatuses, enhancing their life and property saving capabilities as well as protecting their own lives.

Currently, the air tanks used by firefighters have to be sent elsewhere to be filled, incurring an expense that is prohibitive to the use of breathing apparatuses by all firemen in all such situations, according to County Fire Marshal Jay Marsh.

"It is expensive to have the tanks filled," Marsh said, "And the volunteer fire departments especially can't afford the cost."

"The money for this much needed piece of equipment isn't available so we are applying to private sources for their help," Marsh added.

"Don't forget, the donation is tax deductible," Marsh stressed.

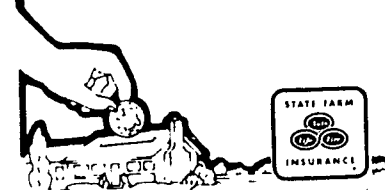

"It has been well documented that the biggest hazard to firemen is respiratory problems caused by inhaling various pollutants that are created by fires," Marsh explained.

"The smoke from every fire contains some kind of pollutant," Marsh said, "Especially with all the new plastics."

To contribute to this fund send your donations to the Hancock County Firefighter's Association, 129 Court Street, Bay St. Louis, MS 39520 or call Jay Marsh at 467-9226 and a firefighter will pick up your donation.

In a recent column we took a brief look at fusiform rust, a serious fungus disease of southern pine trees. Today, we'll look at some ways of dealing with the problem.

Complete eradication of the disease is not possible. In nurseries and seed orchards, where values are high, the damage caused by fusiform rust can be reduced by spraying the trees with fungicides. In plantations or natural stands, where spraying is not economically feasible, other steps can be taken.

In young plantations, pruning branches with rust galls less than 15 inches from the stem will reduce the likelihood of trunk infestations. Pruning is useless on trees that already have a trunk gall or canker. Moreover, new infections sometimes occur even after pruning.

Sometimes it is possible to save a high-value tree with a small, newly developed trunk gall. Carefully cut away the bark and some of the wood around the gall and apply tree wound paint.

In commercial stands, trees with trunk cankers should be removed in thinning operations, provided their removal does not open the stand too much.

Diseased trees are not a direct threat to the surrounding healthy ones, since spores that infect pines come only from oak leaves.

The following rule of thumb might be useful in planning the salvage of trees with trunk cankers: If less than 50 percent of the circumference is killed, there is more than an even chance of salvage for eight years.

If 50 percent of the circumference is killed, but there is no bend at the canker or no sunken face, there is an even chance of salvage for five years.

There is less than an even chance of salvage for five years if 50 percent of the circumference is killed, with a bend at the canker and either a sunken or normal face.

To some extent, the resistance to fusiform rust is a genetic trait. This is just one quality that plant breeders look for when developing new strains of trees, such as improved seedlings available from the Mississippi Forestry Commission, as well as industry and commercial nurseries.

In our next article we'll look at some insects that attack Southern trees.

Grand Jury to convene Tuesday

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Hancock County Jury will convene Tuesday.

Hancock County Circuit Clerk Pamela Metzler said the January Grand Jury has been in session this week and is expected to issue a final report. An interim report was issued earlier.

The January Grand Jury will be released when the new Grand Jury is empaneled.

Metzler said law enforcement officers have indicated to her that the caseload for the July Grand Jury will be light, but the jurors will remain subject to call for six months after the Grand Jury convenes.

In addition, Circuit Court will convene July 5 with Judge Kosta Vlahos presiding.

Monday, July 4, is a holiday and the courthouse will be closed.

SHADE TREE PEST

I guess high temperatures are typical for a Mississippi summer, and there's not much we can do about them.

The thought of hot sun makes me want to find the biggest shade tree in Hancock County.

Some of you who value those big shade oaks and pecans have noticed big, black insects crawling on the bark. Those insects you see are giant bark aphids, and they feed on shade trees.

That sticky substance on your shade trees are the honeydew made by the bark aphids when they digest tree sap. The honeydew is messy and hard to clean off if you get it on your clothing.

Our Lady of the Gulf's Annual Crab Festival will cover Friday, Saturday, Sunday and Monday.

The festival will be held at the intersection of US-90 and Beach Boulevard in Bay St. Louis.

The fair offers all types of foods, seafoods, games and contests in addition to live entertainment.

I am sure the festival workers will be tired by the end of the four days working for their church benefit.

We know the food is very good at the festival and will get a few meals there over the weekend. We hope to see you there.

The parishioners and friends of St. Rose DeLima Catholic Church will also celebrate their Annual Fair on Saturday and Sunday.

The title this year is A Fair of the Heart, and is intended to be a family event.

It is the time of the year when many former parishioners and relatives of St. Rose's parishioners return home for the holidays.

St. Rose's Fair will be held on the school grounds across from the church located on Nacaise Avenue in Bay St. Louis.

It too will have some very good international flavor foods, tennis and softball tournaments, games, live entertainment and is open to the public.

We know many have been working hard in recent weeks in preparation for the fair which is being coordinated by Phillip Williams.

Saturday at 1 p.m. the Annual Clermont Harbor street parade is scheduled to begin on Poinset Street.

The event which began several years ago is the annual highlight for the community's residents and friends who join them for the fun.

Several fishing events are on tap for the weekend including the Mississippi Deep Sea Fishing Rodeo with

The big fishing rodeo is presented by the civic leaders of the Gulf Coast.

This year's rodeo will be held Friday, Saturday, Sunday and Monday and offers prizes for both salt and fresh water fishing.

All fishermen have to do is to fill out a pre-registration form to compete.

On Saturday, the Clement R. Bontemps American Legion Post No. 139 of Bay St. Louis will hold its Annual Kids Fishing Rodeo.

The rodeo is open to boys and girls aged 13 and under and offers some very nice prizes donated by some area merchants.

Fishing is included from the mouth of the Jourdan River to Bayou Cadet from piers and shoreline. No boat fishing is allowed.

Participants can register on the morning of the fishing rodeo, and each will receive a free Coke and hamburger or hot dog.

Scales open at 7 a.m. and close at 3 p.m. Drawings will also be held for many valuable prizes. Participants will compete in nine categories.

There will be trophies for those catching the big ones.

For the safety of the youngsters, no catfish or stingers will be accepted at the rodeo.

Last year a total of 168 youngsters participated in the kids fishing rodeo.

Headquarters will be the American Legion Memorial Pier, Beach Boulevard and Washington Street, Bay St. Louis.

The Annual Jourdan River Shores Boat parade is scheduled for Saturday at 2 p.m.

The community boat parade on the Jourdan River is a big hit with residents of the area, who go all out for an afternoon of fun and festivities.

On Sunday at noon, the Annual Garden Isle Community Boat parade is scheduled.

Boats are all decorated for the parade which travels some of the canals in the community followed by a group picnic.

Year after year, the residents of Garden Island and Jourdan River Shores all have a good time during the boat parades.

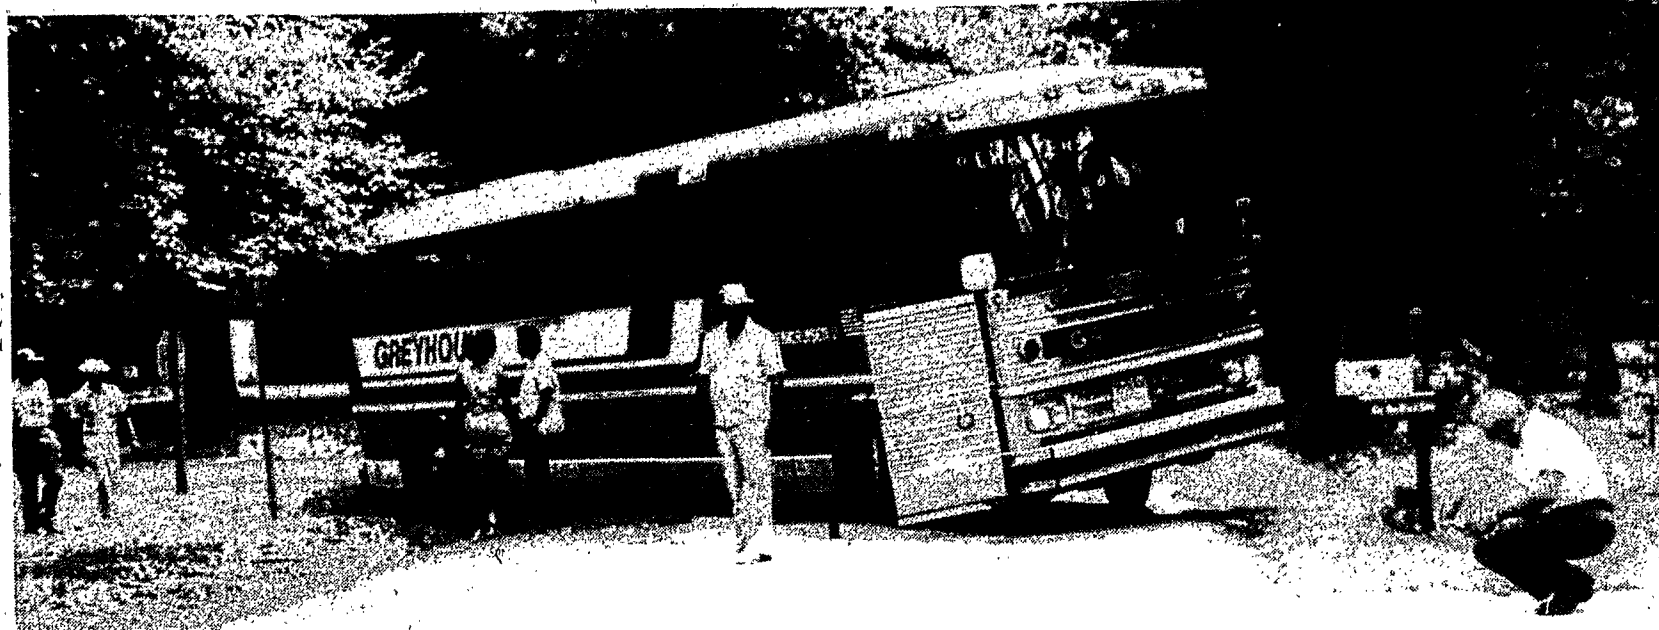

We wish everyone smooth sailing.

Across the Bay on Monday, 4 p.m. at War Memorial Park, Pass Christian's Historical Society and the Cecil R. Ruddock VFW Post 5931 and Ladies Auxiliary will celebrate Pass Christian's 150th birthday and the United States' 212th birthday.

Events will include a young people's parade, speeches and music.

As you can see, we will be pretty busy over the long July 4th weekend.

We hope each and everyone of you will have a happy and safe Fourth.

UNABLE TO MOVE—Greyhound bus driver Kerry Edwards, right, strikes a flare to place in the road after his bus was bogged at the intersection of Gulf Drive and Piney Ridge Road, Waveland Saturday afternoon. The busload of beach visitors was on their way to New Orleans traveling from Beach Boulevard on Sears Avenue to US-90 when the driver mistook Gulf Drive for the continuation of Sears which made a sharp curve. Residents of Gulf Drive and

Pine Ridge Road reported drivers frequently get lost by missing the turn of Sears Avenue which only has a Dangerous Curve sign. The marking does not indicate a continuation of the avenue. A large wrecker had to be summoned from Slidell to tow the disabled bus and another bus for the passengers from New Orleans. (Echo staff photo by Ellis Cuevas)

Highway Patrol promises full strength holiday enforcement

JACKSON— Highway Patrol officials report they are planning an all out war on highway deaths by placing 100 percent of their sworn officers on duty during the deadly Fourth of July observance in Mississippi.

Records show that 103 deaths have occurred in motor vehicle crashes during Independence Day observances since 1978. This makes it the deadliest of the six major holidays in the 10-year period. The second and third deadliest holidays are Memorial Day and Thanksgiving with 100 and 98 deaths, respectively, occurring in the past 10 years.

Col. David Huggins, assistant commissioner of public safety and Highway Patrol chief, said, "Unmarked cars will be used for enforcement during the three-day holiday period in addition to the fully marked units."

"Motorists will recognize our officers when they approach a vehicle because they will be wearing a Highway Patrol uniform," Huggins said.

"We are seeking voluntary compliance with laws governing travel on the highways of this state, but I can assure you if you are violating the law you will recognize our efforts," Huggins warned.

He said driver's license examining personnel and supervisors, criminal investigators and sworn patrol officers who instruct at the Mississippi Law Enforcement Officers' Training Academy will be assigned to the highways to augment the 321-trooper force.

"These assignments will result in all 540 of our officers being on the road at one time or another during the observance," Huggins said.

Troopers arrested 209 drivers for driving under the influence of drugs or alcohol and 10 people were killed in automobile crashes during the independence Day observance in 1987.

The 78-hour period begins at 6 p.m. on Friday, July 1 and ends at midnight on Monday, July 4.

Huggins encourages all motorists to wear their seat belts, allow enough time to arrive at their destination so speed laws will not be broken, do not drink alcohol or use drugs before getting behind the wheel, do not drive when fatigued, and show courtesy to their fellow highway users.

Eyes on Mississippi

By Bill Minor

BILOXI— We are just beginning to see what a bruising battle the U.S. Senate race between Wayne Dowdy and Trent Lott is going to be.

Although the two have been colleagues in the U.S. House of Representatives the past seven years, there's obviously no love lost between them. It's as though the two had been girding all along for an inevitable showdown for the seat being vacated by Sen. John Stennis.

Since both men have records in Congress which can be brought out and compared, there's more campaign ammunition available on both sides than in any statewide political campaign in memory.

What specially marks this campaign is that Mississippians will have a rare chance to choose between two candidates with clearly defined philosophical differences along liberal and conservative lines.

Dowdy, on the basis of his overall record, would fall in the liberal end of the political spectrum, while Lott has been widely known as one of the ultra-conservatives in the U.S. Congress.

However, Lott, who began muting some of his far-right positions beginning back last year when it became known that Stennis would not seek reelection, seems now to find it necessary to move toward the middle ground.

Of course, Lott has already begun to paint Dowdy as a flaming Democratic liberal. "My opponent has never met a spending bill he didn't like," the 46-year-old Pascagoula reminded newspaper people here at the Mississippi Press Association annual convention last week.

The polls so far that show Lott ahead by 10 or 11 points, I believe, are a pretty accurate reflection of where the race stands right now. Dowdy, I feel sure, is behind, and he is going to have to catch up a lot of ground between Sept. 1 and Nov. 8 if he is to win.

On paper, if you use the most recent experience of how the white-black democratic coalition worked for Ray Mabus over Jack Reed last November, you could project Dowdy as the winner.

The formula, in the case of Mabus, worked with only about 30 to 35 percent of the white vote and 90 percent of the black vote.

But in a presidential election year, the coalition percentages became skewed. For example, there were 951,000 votes cast in 1984, a presidential year, in the Senate race when Thad Cochran slaughtered William Winter. That compares to only 785,000 votes cast in the Mabus-Reed faceoff last November.

The fact that some 260,000 more votes were cast in 1984 is a vital factor. Most of the bulge in votes came from white voters who turned out at the polls in record numbers, apparently lured by the presence of Ronald Reagan on the ballot.

Consequently, the theoretical 70-30 percent white-black proportions of the total vote in Mississippi did not obtain in 1984 as the white share of the vote went up and the black vote went down.

This means that the presidential race this November is definitely going to be a factor in determining the outcome of the race between Dowdy and Lott. Vice-President George Bush, although the favorite now to carry Mississippi, doesn't have the drawing power of Reagan in this state.

The Democratic ticket headed by Gov. Michael Dukakis, with possibly the popular Sen. John Glenn on the ticket, seems certain to pull back to the Democratic ranks a lot of white Mississippi Democrats who had defected to the GOP in 1984.

The biggest surprise in the polling thus far has been the indication that 14 percent of the black vote would go to Lott. Considering the fact that Lott's credentials on issues important to blacks are far worse than almost any major Mississippi politician on the state scene, it seems obvious that a lot of blacks have not yet been "educated" by the Dowdy forces.

Lott no doubt is riding the wave of better statewide name recognition than Dowdy, largely perhaps due to the fact that Lott has frequently been seen on network television as the Republican whip in the House. That the neatly coiffed Lott is cool, confident and convincing on TV makes him formidable in a day when television is such a key medium.

Dowdy, a sort of Lincoln-like figure, is more earthy. He has a country twang that the proverbial 'redneck' should love. And he converses the ground like a scalded dog.

Already, there is an air of cockiness building in the Republican camp that they have a sure winner. But they have made that mistake before.

Sees enforcement as answer to county's animal problems

Letter to the Editor
Sea Coast Echo
Dear Editor:

From a recent editorial in your paper I will quote: "Maybe it is time for Mississippi to have some very strong animal laws."

This statement was prompted by the stray dogs in BaySide Park. It might well have referred to dogs in any area of Hancock County, and I couldn't agree more wholeheartedly.

Dogs running loose are at best a nuisance and at worst dangerous.

Up to that point the majority of the populace is in agreement.

What we need isn't laws—they are on the books. We have laws. What we need is enforcement. A law is only as good as its enforcement. Therein we face the truth—the awful truth is that our officers do not strictly enforce the laws as written in our ordinances.

Perhaps we should examine the reasons why:

2) Do we have sufficient forces to handle the situations promptly?

2) Are they paid enough money to make the job attractive?

3) Are those who complain ready and willing to testify in dog-related incidences? Or do they fear disfavor and retribution from dog owners?

I contend the problem is serious. The problem is not in 'making laws,' the law should be promptly and 'with malice toward none' have enforcement for all.

I am for dethroning Dogdom and giving the county back to the people. Are you with me?

SUMMER LIFESTYLE

Capitalize on the sensational, sun-filled days of summer!

A myriad of creative options for enjoying summertime pleasures

Almost everyone can recall a favorite childhood memory that is intimately linked with the arrival of summer. Whether it was the moment you realized school was out for three whole months, or that the family vacation was finally under way, it somehow epitomized the pleasurable times and fun adventures that are synonymous with summer.

And, while the leisure hours of a six-year-old are long past most of our grasps, summertime still means longer hours of leisure after a day's work is done.

The stretched-out days and evenings allow a slow-motion effect to pervade actions and events otherwise rushed through. Family dinners move outside, into scented evenings on porches and patios; friends linger around the barbecue, reliving a sports event of which they were the stars, not simply armchair spectators.

Summer is the long-awaited-for season of action—whether it's the thrashing and giggling of children playing in a swimming pool or lawn sprinkler, or a heated match of volleyball on a beach by the ocean or one's favorite lake.

It is a season when months of pent-up energy finally can be unleashed and expended in a way of which only Americans are capable.

Exercise, exercise, exercise—out come the racquets, the clubs, the assorted balls and the boats, and off we go to the mountains, valleys and plains to live life to the fullest.

They come in all kinds of forms—these delicious summer activities of living life to its fullest—including eating such delights as ice cream, milkshakes and fresh summer fruit.

Yes, not all aspects of summer lifestyle mean steaming with sweat and being out of breath, because part of summer is relaxation too: Like lying in a hammock under a canopy of leaves, lazily swinging back and forth, reading all those magazines, newspapers and books you've been meaning to get to all this time, or not even bothering to read at all, and simply swinging in the gentle breeze.

However, if you are a home improvement enthusiast, or happen to live with one, those blissful moments of inactivity probably won't come without first mowing the lawn or accomplishing some do-it-yourself tasks, such as insulating the attic or an exposed wall, or caulking or weatherstripping around windows and doors to make your home more economical and efficient for your air conditioner(s), as well as for the furnace next winter.

That seems to be the balance for a great summer lifestyle: Working hard and playing hard, or working hard and playing easy—whichever suits your style and taste.

Summer is also a time to enjoy new fashions with their jazzy graphics and cool fabrics to match the liveliness of the season. It is a time to soak up the abundant sunshine (although it's wise to use moderation and appropriate protection) and to play in the water.

It is a time to enjoy the fruits and labors of this lush time of year, and to share those bounties with loved ones and friends.

Summer also is the perfect time to celebrate and reinforce a sense of family, by concentrating on doing projects together, whether it's a family construction project (treehouse, pool deck or greenhouse), a garden project, family walks in the woods or a camping trip.

Capturing the progression of a family project or camping trip on film or videotape is an excellent way to create a family album. Viewing the slides or tape later will be fun, and will help automatically to shape a "living" sense of family history.

Another fun way to bring the family together during the summer is to have a creative refreshment session, where every member of the family mixes fruit juices and soft drinks to create a new drink.

The family can then vote on whose "master concoction" best quenches a hot summer thirst. An "awards ceremony" can even cap the contest.

A family play is another, often hilarious option. Family members can exchange roles (father playing son or daughter playing mother) and write a new script of some outrageous family situation, or use an already established play.

Cool summer evenings are perfect for all kinds of games, anything from hide-and-go-seek, to flashlight shadow dramas.

Most of all, summer is a time of infinite possibilities, a time to capture and keep all that is important to one's imagination and heart, and even perhaps to recapture, at least for a moment, that feeling of exhilaration that comes upon six-year-olds, when the prospect of a summer full of adventure is laid out before them, unfettered, without boundaries.

Beauty and the beach

This summer's beauty buzz words for good grooming at the beach include muscle toning; hair and skin revitalization; skin, eye and hair protection; plus another subject that up until now has caused a lot of anguish—removal of hair from arms and legs.

Within the past six months, a revolutionary new product called Epilady has been making hair removal news.

Not a chemical, wax or shaver, Epilady is a hand held machine which obtains long-lasting results (three weeks average grow back) and is safe (no sharp blades, chemicals or hot waxes).

How does this "miracle" machine work? Epilady's rapidly rotating coils lightly hold and ease hair out from root level as they whirl smoothly over the leg's surface.

Does this hurt? "Not as much as tweezing your eyebrows," answer most Epilady users, who find that long-lasting results and freedom from nicks and cuts, plus money saved over depilatory and wax use, make it all worthwhile.

Epilady is available in most major department stores. You can get more information on this revolutionary new beauty product by calling their 1-800-444-LEGS number.

Boat horns: Required equipment

The U.S. Coast Guard requires that all boats over 17 feet in length carry a boat horn with an audible distress signal that can be heard up to a mile away in still water.

A spokesperson for Falcon Safety Products, Inc., the world's largest manufacturer of hand-held, compressed gas powered push-button boat horns, stresses the importance of testing your horn before leaving shore.

Also make sure that you have a backup compressed gas refill canister stowed on board.

Users of electric boat horns will want to keep a push-button horn on board in the event of an electrical failure.

Don't forget the flashlights: Survival tips for packing for summer camp

They'll only be away for eight weeks... but somehow it seems like they need to take everything they own to summer camp!

If packing for camp seems overwhelming, don't fret. Camp survival can be easy for you and your camper if you follow these tips from Aris Isotoner, leading accessories manufacturer.

• Pack clothes for warm days and cold nights—and don't forget their rain gear, like boots and ponchos, which can come in very handy.

• Make sure all your child's clothes are labeled so they don't get lost in the laundry. And send along a marking pen just in case a label comes off.

• Most cabins have wooden floors—so make sure you pack a pair of slippers, like Isotoner Comfort Slippers, to prevent splinters, and help keep feet warm and comfortable when walking in their cabins.

• A beach pail is the perfect way for campers to carry their toothpaste, toothbrush, shampoo and hair accessories to the showers.

• A bug repellent and an anti-itch spray are musts, as well as a flashlight, a canteen, sun block and a sun visor.

• A picture of the family, a favorite stuffed animal or something that will remind them of home is always appreciated—even by the most experienced

HAPPY BIRTHDAY AMERICA!

As we prepare to celebrate another Independence Day, maybe it's well to be reminded of what is right with America. Think of the nearly four billion people who make up our world community as being represented by 100 people. Of those 100 people, only five live in the United States. The other 95 are citizens of the countries. Yet these five U.S. citizens have:

- one half of all the money in the world
- 15 times more material possessions than the other 95 people combined
- a gross national product 3 times that of Japan and almost equal to the combined output of the Soviet Union, Japan, and West Germany
- one third of all the automobiles in the world
- they are responsible for much of the technology for changing our lives with: electric lights, telephones, computers and so forth
- on U.S. soil is grown half of the world's corn, 60% of its soybeans and a large percentage of wheat
- they also print 40% of the world's newspapers, have one-third of all the world's college professors, and one-third of the world's Nobel Prize winners are from this country.

All of these "first, most and best" boil down to the assets, profits and dividends of America's corporation. Why would anyone not want to invest in such a country? God Bless America!

SUMMER LIFESTYLE

Flirtatious, ultra-feminine silhouettes mark Italian fashion for summer '88

Summer '88 is the season Italian fashion marks a return to ultra feminine shapes, according to the Italian Trade Commission's Fashion Center in New York.

Gone are the severely tailored lines of previous seasons, with the focus for summer '88 upon soft draping, flattering tucks and strategically-placed knots which accentuate sensuous curves.

"Italian designers are featuring highly feminine styles in their collections, taking new steps towards bold, flirty silhouettes," according to Sandy Singer of the Italian Fashion Center.

"The accents are on body-conscious contours as dresses wrap, drape and cling," Singer added. "And, once again, the miniskirt is the big direction for the summer, in a variety of fabrications, from ruffled and flared to short and pencil-straight."

Feminine suits

Summer suits highlight this feminine trend with jackets that focus on the torso and hips. They can be short and nipped at the waist for a very curvy outline...or shapely and very long in three-quarter or seven-eighth lengths.

Skirts are designed as a delightful contrast to jackets, and the general rule of thumb is: The shorter the jacket, the fuller the skirt.

Shoulders are articulated with rounded, more natural lines in dolman, raglan and push-up styles. And gone are the masculine influenced sharp collars, replaced by V-shaped necklines that add a new softness.

Magical eveningwear

As always, Italians have an imaginative flair with eveningwear, and the summer collections further emphasize this talent. The newest looks feature high-waisted empire silhouettes, short baby-doll hems that dip to the knee in front and back, and lots of bare shoulders.

"Romance is back, with a definite return to suggestive curves and femininity," according to Mr. Singer.

Key colors and fabrics

The color schemes which best express this summer's soft themes are sand, khaki and white—either alone or matched with pastels.

Navy blue plays an important role and is coupled with bone, beige and coffee for a new twist while peach, yellow and fuchsia appear in striking geometrics, miniature florals and exotic tropical prints.

To achieve the season's flowing designs, the Italians are utilizing soft fabrics such as smooth jerseys, fluid knits, feather light poplins and crisp linens for day. Eveningwear is based on elegant chiffons, shimmering taffetas and richly textured cloques.

The finished look presents a more relaxed, but always sensuous silhouette that will certainly appeal to American women.

Medical expert offers insight into the potential dangers of summer lifestyles

By eating ice cream and lying on the beach, you may be enjoying the summer lifestyle, but you're doing damage to your body in ways of which you may not be aware. A leading medical expert, Dr. Harry Demopoulos, Associate Professor of Pathology at the prestigious New York University Medical Center, answers questions about what to watch out for this summer.

Q. Other than putting on a few pounds and risking a sunburn, what are the dangers of the summer lifestyle?

A. Everyday toxins are all around us. Surprisingly, they are in many of the things that make summer living especially enjoyable.

For example, we have a diet of foods high in fat due to the summer abundance of ice cream and other popular picnic fare such as hamburgers, hot dogs and fried chicken, as well as sugary soft drinks, alcohol and tobacco, which we use to help us cool off and relax.

Exercise, the number one activity on the health and fitness program, also can be harmful when excessive because it increases the body's intake of oxygen.

Contrary to popular belief, when we consume massive proportions of oxygen, we pave the way for cell-damaging, toxic chemicals called "oxygen free radicals," which in turn make the body more susceptible to diseases.

Normal molecules have a pair of balanced electrons. Free radicals are molecules with a single unpaired electron. Free radicals are lonely, and try to steal an electron from stable molecules to create a balanced pair for themselves. This makes the neighbor unstable, and causes free radical chain reactions to occur.

Q. How do free radicals damage the body?

A. Recently, scientists have begun to make a connection between cellular damage and disease. Free radicals are encouraged to develop in cells and tissue by the toxins we just mentioned, as well as by external forces beyond our control, such as stress, everyday work pressures and air pollution. The damage caused by the process helps lead to heart disease, cancer, strokes, diabetes, arthritis and other age-associated disorders.

Q. Can the body overcome the effects of free radicals?

A. Nobel Prize winners and other scientists have developed a free radical knowledge that is now recognized as a basic pathological process. Subsequently, trials and research have shown that substances called "antioxidants" blunt the effects of free radicals.

Q. What are antioxidants?

A. Antioxidants are now known to help our bodies combat cellular damage. Some are produced by our own cells, but most are taken in through diet.

Fruits and vegetables are particularly rich in antioxidants like beta carotene (carrots and squash), alpha tocopherol (vitamin E, found in wheat germ and grains), and glutathione, which is unrelated to vitamins but consists of three powerful amino acids bound together as a trio.

Q. Is it possible to get enough antioxidants from eating fruits and vegetables to fight cellular damage?

A. Not really. While you're young, tissue supplies may be adequate, provided you eat a balanced diet. However, things like improper diet, tobacco, alcohol, etc., increase production of pathologic free radicals while simultaneously depleting antioxidant tissue supplies. Also, free radical-induced cancers, heart disease, etc., develop over many years, so prevention should start early.

Effective prevention can only be achieved when antioxidants and certain other nutrients are taken at levels far above our daily food intake. Ordinary supplements can help prevent vitamin deficiencies, but antioxidants (certain vitamins in high doses, generally more than 100 times the U.S. RDA) aid in disease prevention.

Hotline

For additional information and a free brochure on the use of antioxidants for the prevention of degenerative diseases, call the Antioxidant Hotline at 1-800-362-8673, or, in New York, (914) 592-3155, or write to Harry Demopoulos, M.D., % HMP, 7 Westchester Plaza, 1st floor, Elmsford, NY 10523.

New dangers call for special precautions against the summer sun: Here's how to protect yourself 1988 was rung in with some anxious news affecting anyone who enjoys spending summer days outside. In the last five years, it has been estimated that the earth's ozone layer has been depleted by 2 1/2 percent on a global basis.

This is the figure generally agreed upon by NASA, and other conservative forces in the scientific community; however, some sources set the depletion rate as high as five percent.

Depletion of the ozone layer will affect each of us personally, and the first place to show may be in our skin. It might tend to sunburn more easily, wrinkle faster, and the chance of developing skin cancer might increase significantly.

Therefore, if we must spend time outside, it would be a good idea to re-evaluate our sun exposure habits and redouble our efforts to provide maximum protection.

Here are 10 suggestions from the Neutrogena Skincare Institute to help safeguard skin and keep it healthy:

1. Prepare for sun exposure early. Healthy skin is well-hydrated. Establish the habit of drinking plenty of cool refreshing water, and eating a well-balanced diet that includes juicy fruits and vegetables.

2. A suntan might give you a few days of smug satisfaction until you realize it is literally etching wrinkles into your face. You won't see them today or tomorrow. But 10 years down the road you'll be able to read your sunbathing habits like a map.

Take sunscreens seriously. The good news is they're now available in higher strengths for extra protection. Also remember that since skin is a living organ, it can change with age.

Evaluate your skin type as it is today, identify the appropriate SPF number, then buy products one number higher to account for this year's higher risk. You might even opt for a sunblock. Also, select a PABA-free sunscreen if you tend to have sensitive skin.

3. Don't just buy a sunscreen; use it religiously. Apply it at least 30 minutes before you go out into the sun.

4. If you take today's comfort and tomorrow's health at all seriously, you will

SUMMER ACTIVITIES CAN BE HAZARDOUS: CHECK INSURANCE

During the summer months children engage in a number of activities such as tree climbing, playing tag or swinging on outdoor gym sets, all of which are fun but could be hazardous.

Who is responsible if little Tommy falls out of a tree and breaks his leg, or if little Mary trips and fractures her arm?

Whoever owns the property where the child is hurt may be liable to pay for medical costs and could be liable in a lawsuit.

All homeowner's package policies provide liability protection against accidents on the premises. But homeowners should check the liability limits of their policies to be sure they are fully covered. They should discuss uncertainties with their agents, brokers or company representatives.

It is also a good idea to supervise children as much as possible to help prevent an accident before it can happen.

avoid the peak sun-damage hours of 10 AM to 2 PM.

5. Remember that being on a rock, raft or boat in the water actually increases sun intensity. Plan sun exposure with this in mind, and up your SPF factor accordingly.

6. Paradoxically, most swimming environments are drying to the skin. A high chlorine content has been known to cause rashes, and salt water dehydrates. So take an extra step after swimming.

Rinse off immediately with warm water, using a skin renewing cleanser that smooths and calms skin as it removes the salt and chlorine residue.

Neutrogena Rainbath Shower & Bath Gel removes this film without stripping valuable oils. Then its conditioners soothe and smooth even the most sensitive skin, actually improving its texture by as much as 28 percent after just one shower.

Avoid hot water which will exacerbate the drying. If a shower is inaccessible, bring a spray bottle of fresh water for this purpose. It's that important.

7. Smooth on a moisturizer while skin is still damp from the shower. Then, if you are returning to the sun, liberally re-apply your sunscreen, blotting off all moisture beads. Water droplets or oil on the body acts as prisms, with the sun's rays to promote burning.

8. Rehydrate with water, inside and out. If all attempts at protection fail, soothe parched skin with cold compresses and calamine lotion, and avoid sun until skin is completely restored to normal. Severe sunburns should always receive a doctor's attention.

9. Treat skin with kid gloves. Avoid anything that can upset its balance (exfoliators, buffers, heavy creams and makeup that can clog pores, strong astringents) and concentrate on maintaining a smooth, irritation-free texture by using a gentle, conditioning cleanser and following with an effective but light moisturizer.

10. Be on the alert for unexpected skin irritants. Fragrance applied in the sun and spilled citrus juice could result in blotching, and check with your doctor to determine whether any prescription being taken could make skin photosensitive.

Summer sun dangers needn't keep you indoors or put a damper on your enjoyment. By letting caution be your watchword, and taking the necessary steps to protect and maintain healthy skin, your summer days can be just as satisfying as those of years gone by.

And, who knows? Maybe this will be the first summer you won't put yourself out of commission with the stinging pain, tender blisters and ugly peeling of a sunburn!

Motorcycle touring tips for enthusiasts help make taking to the road more fun

Each summer, thousands of motorcyclists find adventure cruising country roads, topping "just one more hill" or rounding another bend to discover what lies beyond. This year, touring enthusiasts are in for an even better ride.

Harley-Davidson is sponsoring a Milwaukee Ride and rally to benefit the Muscular Dystrophy Association (MDA) as part of its 85th Anniversary celebration.

Participants will depart June 12 from nine different locations and travel cross country along some of the nation's most scenic roads, en route to Harley-Davidson's hometown of Milwaukee and an MDA rally at Henry W. Maier Festival Park on Milwaukee's lakefront.

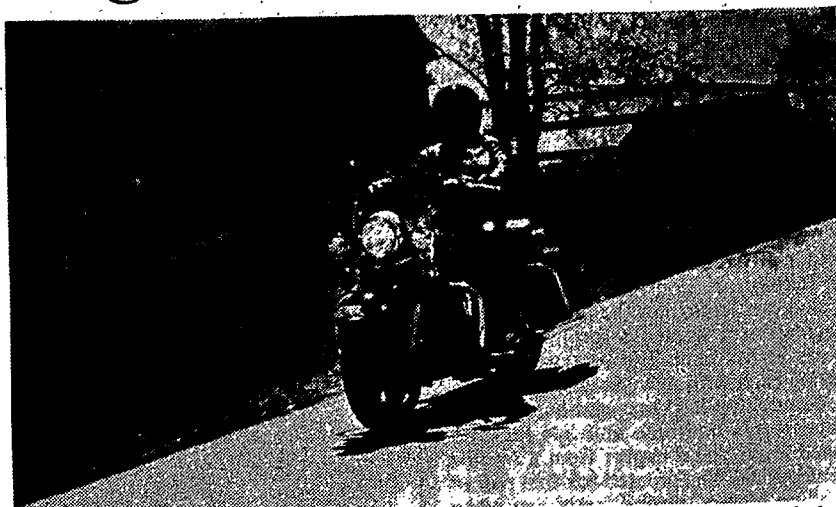

Harley-Davidson reminds riders that motorcycle touring can be strenuous if you're not prepared. Whether you're participating in Harley-Davidson's fundraising ride or just out for a weekend trip, the company offers these suggestions to help make your ride more enjoyable:

- Make sure your motorcycle fits you by carefully adjusting the handlebars, suspension and footpegs well in advance of your trip. Experiment with different positions on short rides to determine your best fit.
- The better physical shape you are in, the less tiring and more enjoyable motorcycle touring will be for you.

- Don't overreact to irregularities in the road—such as rain grooves cut into the pavement. When reaching these grooves, keep your speed steady and don't fight the vibration in the handlebars.

- Enjoy the scenery, but be sure you are seeing and being seen on the road. Ride with your lights on and wear bright clothing.

- Never ride in someone's blind spot and always expect the unexpected. Ride to the left of the center of your lane to avoid the oil buildup on the center of the pavement, and prevent cars from crowding your lane space. Don't tailgate, and make sure no one is tailgating you.

- Make sure to stay within the recommended load capacity of your motorcycle. Weigh everything you plan to take on a trip, including yourself in full riding gear.

- Balance your load by putting heaviest items as close to the center of your motorcycle as possible and do not put too much weight on the back. Pack saddlebags from side to side, keeping the weight evenly balanced. The items you'll need first, especially rain gear, should be on top.

- Pack things in plastic bags and carry a few plastic bags for wet weather to wear over your boots to keep your feet dry.

- Check your motorcycle every morning for proper fluid levels, tire pressure and general operating condition.

- Dress by layering. Start with a T-shirt, then add a long sleeve cotton or flannel shirt, a wool sweater or vest and leather jacket. As temperatures change, layers can be removed or added. Always bring gloves because, even in summer, a cool morning breeze can make hands unbearably cold.

- Plan your trip well in advance and check road and weather conditions just before leaving.

- If lighting starts, take cover immediately because, unlike a car, a motorcycle leaves you exposed to electric shock.

- Handy items to take along: Tire pressure gauge, rags to keep your bike clean and a first aid kit.

Harley-Davidson also urges all new motorcycle touring enthusiasts to take some short weekend trips to learn all the subtle characteristics of their motorcycles before taking to the highways for extended tours.

Harley-Davidson dealers can provide additional tips and information on motorcycle touring, the best motorcycling roads in the U.S., and the Milwaukee Ride and rally.

Don't let motion sickness spoil your vacation travel

The car is packed, the family settled in, the house is locked up and you're setting off on your well-deserved summer vacation.

As the driver pulls the car out into the street, you settle back comfortably, satisfied that you've thought of everything... everything, that is, except to take your motion sickness medication. Without it, you may be in for a long and miserable ride.

Motion sickness can occur when traveling in any type of vehicle. Experts estimate that one out of 20 people consistently experiences motion sickness, while nine out of 10 people react to especially bumpy, jerky or rough rides.

Children under the age of two and adults over the age of 50 are the least likely to suffer from motion sickness, while children between the ages of two and 12 are the most likely to experience it.

Almost all travelers are susceptible to some type of motion sickness, but the degree to which each individual suffers varies. And if you've suffered from it once, chances are you'll probably suffer from it again.

Any type of irregular motion can cause your inner sense of balance to become disoriented. The symptoms of motion sickness range from a mild queasy sensation to nausea, dizziness and vomiting.

Although there is no cure for motion sickness, its symptoms can be prevented by taking dimenhydrinate—the active ingredient in Dramamine®—30 to 60 minutes before travel.

In addition to the original Dramamine®—available in tablet form to be swallowed with water—Dramamine® is now available in chewable orange-flavored tablets which can be taken without water. There is also a good-tasting cherry-flavored Dramamine® liquid that is especially suited for children.

For more than 30 years, Dramamine® has been used by millions of people worldwide and has been proven to be safe and effective.

Whatever your mode of transportation—land, air or sea—there are many things you can do to minimize motion sickness during your summer travels.

Where you sit, where you look, what you wear, and what you eat and drink can affect your travel experience.

In a car or on a bus, the next best position to the driver's seat is the front seat near an open window or air vent. On a train, you should choose a seat which faces forward.

Sitting in a semi-reclined position, you should try to keep your head still and focus on the horizon in front of you. Resist the temptation to look at the scenery and movement out the side windows.

On an airplane, seats over the wings or wheels, where vibrations are minimized, are the most stable. On a boat or cruise ship, a midship cabin near the water line is recommended.

Keep your eyes on the horizon instead of the rolling waves. Walking on deck in the cool, fresh air away from fumes and heat will also make you feel better.

Your travel attire should consist of loose-fitting clothes that don't restrict circulation and that allow you to feel comfortable and relaxed. Dressing in layers will help you adjust to varying temperatures.

And don't travel on an empty stomach. Instead, enjoy a pre-trip meal that is bland and easily digestible.

During a long trip, forego heavy meals and greasy foods in favor of light snacks, and avoid drinking alcohol.

Resting quietly in a cool, well-ventilated place and drinking cool liquids may help to relieve unpleasant travel sickness symptoms.

Don't let motion sickness upset your vacation plans! Whatever your mode of transportation, following these simple tips and taking a motion sickness preventive like Dramamine® before you travel helps stop motion sickness before it begins.

Focus on fitness...

Three keys to weight control: Proven plan stresses nutrition, low calories, convenience

Beyond the personal enjoyment of participating in summertime sports, outdoor recreational activities can provide a natural means of engaging in healthful exercise.

For maximum effectiveness, however, exercise must be combined with a well-balanced diet that is followed year-round.

Developing healthy eating patterns can be difficult, but Americans seeking a weight control program that works are finding success by following a landmark diet plan that has helped tens of thousands stay fit for more than two decades.

Originally developed in 1957 by a physician specializing in nutrition, the Roman Meal Diet Plan, underwritten by America's leading whole grain bread products company, today remains one of the country's most effective weight control programs, outlasting dozens of fad diets that have come and gone.

"So effective has this plan been," says Dr. George Christakis, a noted nutrition researcher who has updated the Roman Meal Diet Plan, "that its nutritional principles are consistent with those now adopted by numerous official and voluntary health agencies nationwide."

"This new basic eating pattern, following its initial development," Dr. Christakis added, "was later generally accepted as a serum cholesterol-lowering eating pattern consistent with the U.S. Department of Agriculture's recommendations in force today."

The three keys

The three keys to the success of this plan are providing meals that are (1) high in balanced nutritional value, (2) low in calories, and (3) convenient for the dieter by providing variety and moderation in meal pattern. "Our program is based on advances in nutrition knowledge attained through many years of research," Dr. Christakis said.

The Roman Meal Diet Plan features a 14-day schedule of specific meals that provide nutrients from all major food groups.

Dieters benefit through balanced meals that contain appropriate amounts and types of protein, carbohydrates, fats, fiber, vitamins and minerals—all of which are important for good health, and physical and mental fitness.

The diet plan offers meals which:

- Average only 1,200 calories per day for women and 1,600 for men;
- Provide energy the entire day;
- Reduce the intake of total fats, especially animal fats, simple sugars, and salt;
- Encourage moderate servings;
- Help develop lifelong eating habits to maintain normal weight and fitness.

Free diet brochure offered

The Roman Meal Company, which has supported nutrition research since its inception 75 years ago, is celebrating its Diamond Anniversary this year by offering free copies of its landmark diet and nutrition plan to persons seeking an effective means for weight control.

The complete plan is contained in an easy-to-follow, full-color brochure that is packed with nutritional information.

Included is a complete 14-day diet plan, a calorie-counting guide listing calorie amounts of many substitute foods, and a table showing recommended ideal weights for men and women based on height and frame size.

DON'T GET BURNED WHILE BARBECUING

Outdoor barbecuing is one of the pleasures of summer, but too often those pleasures mask the importance of fire safety.

The National Fire Protection Association (NFPA) observes there were 1,500 reported fires involving outdoor grills between 1980-1983. These incidents resulted in an average of 13 civilian deaths and 70 injuries per year, with a total of $7.5 million in property damage.

The NFPA says the most common points of origin of barbecue fires were balconies or porches, patios, exterior walls and garages, and kitchens.

Outdoor cooks should keep these safety tips in mind:

- Keep the barbecue grill as far away from surrounding structures (garage, home, etc.) as possible.
- Never stuff newspaper or magazines into a grill to help light a fire. The ashes could blow onto the house and start a fire.
- Keep a hose or container of water nearby for emergency situations.
- Never barbecue indoors or in a garage.
- Never add lighter fluid to an open flame or charcoal that has been lit.
- Never use gasoline to light a fire. Use only recommended charcoal lighter fluid.
- Follow instructions carefully when lighting propane gas grills. Make sure all fittings are tight and never try to extinguish a propane fire alone; call the fire department immediately.
- Keep children at a safe distance from the barbecue grill. They could burn themselves or accidentally knock the grill to the ground.

How to vacation in spite of your allergies

The allergy facts

Allergies are triggered by mast cells, which are present in the mucous membranes of your eyes and nose. When stimulated by pollen, dust, pet dander, and other allergens, they break apart, releasing histamine and other chemical mediators.

This sets off the whole cycle of allergic symptoms which may include runny nose, sneezing, congestion and itchy, watery eyes. More than 40 million Americans suffer from allergies.

Planning your vacation

If you suffer from allergies, don't rely on self-medication and over-the-counter drugs to do the trick—some can cause drowsiness, nervousness, irritability or rebound congestion.

A doctor or allergy specialist can prescribe the appropriate medications to help prevent and relieve allergic reactions.

Cromolyn sodium, for instance, is a non-sedating, site-specific substance contained in certain prescription medications, with none of the traditional side effects associated with allergy treatments.

"Cromolyn sodium (Nasalacrom® and Opticrom®) actually stops the mast cells from degranulating (breaking down), which prohibits the release of histamine and prevents symptoms from occurring."

General tips

In addition to visiting your doctor, here are some helpful tips that may make traveling easier for the allergy-prone:

- When traveling by car during the summer months, make sure that the air conditioner is clean and mold-free, and keep the windows closed to avoid breathing air that is filled with pollen;

- Although most hotels use synthetic pillows, if you are allergic to dust, feathers or pollen, you may want to bring your own pillow along on your trip, just in case;

- Don't try to ignore jet lag; stay well-rested. A change in time zones can leave you tired, which weakens your resistance and may exacerbate allergic symptoms;
- Try to avoid fumes and odors, especially cigarette smoke, in enclosed spaces such as restaurants and theaters;

- If you are visiting the homes of friends or relatives, it is best to avoid pets. If this is impossible, ask your hosts to keep your bedroom pet-free and the bedroom door shut.

Favored flavors: Grilling with wood spices

Salt and pepper won't suffice. And garlic, rosemary and thyme have somehow lost their zing. Why not try the newest — yet oldest — flavor addition to the great tradition of outdoors cooking: A different kind of spice called, quite simply, wood.

"No longer is that smoked flavor the territory of Western chuckwagons; sophisticated, urban restaurants; or Southern kitchens," Betty Hughes, consumer affairs director for Weber-Stephen Products Co., says.

"Today, the delightful taste of hickory-smoked turkey or mesquite-grilled steak can be easily duplicated on your outdoor covered grill."

The secret to achieving these aromas is simple: Know your woods, what they best complement and the how-to's of grilling. According to Hughes, the four most popular barbecue woods are hickory, alder, mesquite and oak.

Of all the woods, mesquite is most steeped in Americana. Its thorns and impenetrable brush were a curse to Western cowboys, but its most avid fans had to be chuckwagon cooks, who used the wood's sweet, smoky aroma to enhance the flavor of practically everything they cooked.

Because of the intense heat it produces, mesquite chips and chunks, like those from Weber, flavor a variety of foods well, from pork to chicken to vegetables.

Wood identified? Food readied? Hughes suggests following the hot smoke cooking tips below to ensure a delicious flavor to foods as they are being cooked:

- Always cover the grill while cooking, so the aroma has a chance to fully penetrate the food.

- Wood chips or chunks can stand alone as the sole source of cooking fuel, or act in combination with charcoal.

Naturally, the amount of wood depends on the grill size, food quantity and whether you use it solo or with charcoal.

Add four to six wet chunks to the red-hot, ash-covered charcoal; that imparts an extra-strong smoky flavor to the barbecuing food.

- Soak four to six wood chunks or one cup of wood chips in water for about two hours before cooking time, then place them on the hot coals.

- When the chunks start smoking, begin cooking. The more chips or chunks you use, the more powerful the flavor.

- Use less wood for a lighter flavor. Do some experimenting to find the amount of smoke flavor your family likes best. Keep records of your experiments, so you can repeat the successes.

Spice is nice. But so are woods and the flavors they bring to barbecuing. For a collection of four recipe booklets on how to flavor your barbecuing with wood, (please specify recipes for wood chips or chunks when ordering) send your name, address and zip code with $1.00 to cover handling costs to: Weber-Stephen Products Co., P.O. Box 962, Palatine, IL 60078-0962.

TEXAS-STYLE STEAKS

4 steaks, 1 1/2 inches thick
Olive oil
Freshly cracked black pepper

Guacamole (below)
2 large red onions, cut into 1/2-inch slices
Salt

Guacamole
2 large ripe avocados
2 tablespoons lime juice
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 clove garlic, minced
1 small tomato, peeled, seeded and chopped

Remove steaks from refrigerator one hour before cooking and allow them to come to room temperature. Trim off excess fat.

Rub meat surfaces with olive oil. Firmly press black pepper into steaks as desired. Do not salt at this point, since salt will cause the meat to lose its juices while cooking.

Prepare a pure mesquite fire, following the mesquite grilling tips.

While fire is starting, prepare Guacamole: In a large bowl, mash avocados with a fork until creamy. Add lime juice, salt, garlic and tomato. Mix well. Taste and correct seasonings. Cover and set aside, but do not refrigerate.

When coals are ready, place steaks on the grill and cover. Allow five to six minutes per side for rare; eight to 10 minutes per side for medium; 11 to 14 minutes per side for well done. Turn steaks only once while cooking.

When steaks are done to taste, remove from grill. Brush onion slices with olive oil on each side and grill directly over the coals for three or four minutes on each side, or until slightly charred. Add a few extra mesquite chunks if necessary.

Serve steaks, salted to taste, with onions and Guacamole. Serves four.

11 a.m.-10 p.m.

All too often, vacations are spent on noisy, crowded beaches, or behind the wheel through mile after mile of interstate highway.

This summer, why not scan the horizon for breaching humpback whales, or walk along a woodland path in search of fossils or minerals?

That's the alternative when you join the annual Conservation Summits, family vacations offered by the National Wildlife Federation (NWF).

For 18 years, the Federation has organized these week-long retreats, offering all the ingredients of an ideal vacation: Relaxation, recreation and scenic beauty.

In the process, you can learn about nature from the country's most accomplished experts in conservation education: The National Wildlife Federation.

This year's summits are being held in Bellingham, Washington; Brunswick, Maine; and the Rocky Mountains of Colorado.

Designed for the entire family to enjoy, the Conservation Summits provide parents and children alike with a wide range of activities during the day, while allowing them to spend evenings together.

Grandparents bring their grandchildren, while singles can interact at the "singles only" mixer held on the opening day of each summit.

At the Maine Seacoast Summit, participants venture out to sea or along the rugged coastline.

The Pacific Northwest Summit offers a similar mix of sea and land field trips, dividing its attractions between the Cascade Mountains and the San Juan Islands off the Washington coast.

The Colorado Rockies provide a majestic setting for the Rocky Mountain Summit, perhaps the most popular summit site. Just minutes from the Rocky Mountain National Park, this high country retreat offers spectacular views and an exciting array of wildlife.

In the heart of the Rockies, cascading waterfalls and snowcapped peaks beckon exploration. Early morning wildlife watching provides an opportunity to observe elk, bighorn sheep, golden eagles and many more species.

At NWF Summits, programs are offered for everyone age three and older. Summit participants can create their own schedule, choosing from a wide variety of learning and recreational activities such as nature photography, birdwatching, hiking or courses on ecology and environmental issues.

Teenagers can join programs designed especially for them, including outdoor skills training and wilderness excursions. Group interaction is enhanced by action-filled activities and a sense of adventure.

For youngsters ages five to 12, experienced naturalists prepare activities that combine outdoor games and educational nature explorations.

And for preschoolers there is "Your Big Backyard Program," introducing them to nature through touch-and-feel expeditions and fun-with-nature games. The programs open up new frontiers for young children—and provide some relaxing free time for parents!

For more information, write to: Conservation Summits, National Wildlife Federation, 1412 16th Street, N.W., Washington, DC 20036, or call (703) 790-4363.

Tideland commission to determine state policy

BY D.C. HARVILL
Mississippi Secretary of State Dick Molpus brought together his Blue Ribbon Commission in Biloxi Wednesday to begin determining the policy concerning the state's public trust tidelands.

The commission is comprised of residents all three coastal counties representing a variety of occupations.

Hancock County is represented on the commission by Bay St. Louis Councilman Charles Johnson, Bay Mayor Victor Frankiewicz, former State Representative Walter Phillips and the chairman of the Mississippi Coalition of Fishermen, Jim Lane of Diamondhead.

The purpose of the commission is to determine the policy governing property in the state that is subject to tidal action.

The United States Supreme Court determined that all lands subject to tidal action belongs to the state and is to be held in public trust.

The determination was made in the Cinque Bambini case in which the heirs to Crump in Hancock County had filed suit in an attempt to uncloud the title to tidal lands along Jourdon River.

The Cinque Bambini case was the first case pertaining to ownership of tidal property to go before the United States Supreme Court.

Molpus said he hopes when the commission arrives at a recommendation in October, an equitable policy can be developed.

The Secretary of State will open an office in Gulfport to handle the issue on a local level.

Public hearings in all three coastal counties will begin in November.

Charles Spillman, a beachfront property owner in Pass Christian, presented the commission with a petition asking that a property owner's committee be added so that those who will be impacted directly by the commission's recommendation can be adequately represented and the public will be kept informed of the commission's actions.

When Chairman of the commission, Hugh Keating, asked for a show of hands by all commission members who own waterfront property, approximately one-third of the members raised their hands.

Keating said he hoped Spillman's concerns would be allayed by the presence on the commission of those property owners.

Spillman expressed his dismay that the State had taken property on which people had been paying taxes for many years.

"No matter what decision the commission makes I think they are going to wind up in court. I imagine Mr. Molpus will be in court for the next five to 10 years," Spillman said following the meeting.

Bay Streets to be paved

BY D.C. HARVILL
The Bay St. Louis City Council has been busy this week hammering out the details for a paving project which will include most of the city's currently unpaved streets.

To determine which streets in the city most need to be included in the $250,000 1988 Street Improvement Program, the council began with a list of 21 streets considered for inclusion, then engaged in an elimination process, whittling the list down to 11.

Council members, meeting on Monday and Tuesday evenings, disagreed among themselves as to whether it would be better to pave the streets with the highest number of residents or those that have never been paved.

"I think the people who live on roads that are unpaved, who have been paying taxes for all these years need to be considered just the same as any other residents of the city," said Council President John Wilkerson.

Councilman James Triffley at the Monday meeting, held at the Landmark Restaurant, contended that the council should be given a cost breakdown according to street so they could consider the unit cost for each when making their decision; indicating it would be better to pave the most street, lengthwise, for the money.

Mayor Victor Frankiewicz, having met with the project engineer on Tuesday, provided the council with the breakdown at the Tuesday meeting.

While the majority of the council were not in agreement with Triffley on how to choose where the money should be spent, the costs for paving certain streets was a deciding factor, when the cost was seen as a bargain for the length of the street.

"All I'm saying is I think we need to look at where we are spending the money and try to balance the cost per unit with the number of residents who are going to benefit," Triffley said at Tuesday's meeting.

Frankiewicz pointed out that, while he tended to believe the money should be spent where the most people would benefit, once the city paved a street it was then responsible for maintaining it in a safe condition.

After much discussion of unit cost, traffic rates, and numbers of residents to benefit, the council determined that the Old Spanish Trail, St. Francis and Dunbar from St. Francis to Highway 90 would take top priority along with Bouslog.

Other streets included in the project are Tenth, from Suebe to Ioor; Labat, Citizen, Chiniche, Austin Lane Circle, Fox Drive, the 400 block of St. John; and Necaise, from Main to Bookter. Either Blakemore and Cedar Ridge, Pogo, or Pine Tree Road and Cedar Point Road will be included at the determination of the Councilman for that ward, Lisa Cowan.

Also, if the funding is available after these streets have been paved, spot overlay work will be conducted on other streets needing repair.

Gas prices up slightly since last July 4th

JACKSON—Motorists planning to travel over the July Fourth Holiday weekend will find gasoline prices virtually unchanged since last July Fourth the American Automobile Association reported.

AAA Mississippi's fuel gauge report shows an average of $.951 per gallon for unleaded Regular self-service gasoline, just three-tenths of a cent higher than last year.

Dividing the state into six zones, AAA found the lowest average price per gallon for self-service unleaded regular to be $.906 in the Southwestern section (zone 4) while the East central section (zone 2) had the highest prices at $.992 per gallon.

While gasoline supplies remain plentiful, motorists should top off their fuel tanks before venturing far from home, Triple-A suggests. Only 58 percent of the stations surveyed by the motor club will be open for business over the entire four-day period.

The American Automobile Association is a federation of motor clubs providing more than 29 million members with travel, insurance, financial and auto-related services.

THANKS!

To the people of Bay St. Louis and Waveland

Students, parents of students, School Board Members, employees of the Bay St. Louis-Waveland School System and the tax-paying public, you deserve special thanks for your successes that have resulted from this year's growth and adjustment in your school system.

To you, the students who labor long and hard at raising your performance to meet a higher set of standards, congratulations on your success.

To you, the parents who struggle and sacrifice to insure the best education possible for your children, thank you. You are truly the key to success.

To you, the hard working, underpaid, and often unthanked teachers who unselfishly give of yourselves to help your students, thank you. Your efforts are appreciated much more than you will ever realize.

To you, the loyal school employees who work to support rather than destroy and who place the needs of students ahead of yourselves, thank you.

To you, the members of the community and tax-paying public who support the education of the young people, to all of you, thank you; and remember that the public schools do indeed belong to you. You have purchased them with your hard-earned tax money.

Even to the profiteers of the past, those with a quick and acid tongue and the quiet saboteurs of could be and should be, your criticism and negativism go not unnoticed and serve only to solidify the people's resolve to further improve their schools. For that, we also thank you.

Lastly, to the School Board Members who serve as stepping stones rather than stumbling blocks along the path to better schools for your children, thank you, thank you, thank you.

To all of you, your efforts have not been without success. Shown below are some of your accomplishments of this past school year.

*Scholarships to graduating seniors increased by 460%.

*With the exception of minor overcrowding in several classes, your schools excelled in accreditation by the State of Mississippi.

*Graduating seniors managed themselves with great dignity and respect at graduation.

*The 1988 scores on the Basic Skills Assessment Program Tests were higher in all subjects in all grades than in 1987.

*Scores on the Functional Literacy Test improved in all areas over last year's scores.

*Parent-teacher conferences were extremely successful.

*The consolidation of special education services with the county has been efficient and worthwhile.

*Students participate in the new breakfast program, multiple choice meals, and summer feeding programs.

*The building program is on schedule with all schools to be air-conditioned by the end of the summer.

*Field trip programs have been significantly expanded.

*Monthly school newsletters are published which emphasize student and teaching accomplishments.

*A well attended College Night and Career Night were conducted.

*Students brought great honors to your community through winning science fairs, capturing state elective offices, developing special programs, winning oratorical contests, etc.

*The High School increased on campus credit offerings by 44%.

For these successes and many others, to all of you, I express my sincere appreciation. The successes are of your making. And, for those many areas remaining in need of upgrading, I accept full responsibility and pledge to continue to work toward their improvements.

Have a great summer.

Sincerely,

Roger D. Oge, Superintendent
Bay St. Louis-Waveland School District

Vehicle window tinting law phases in Friday

JACKSON—The first phase of a two-phase law governing the density of darkening materials allowed on the windows of motor vehicles goes into effect Friday, July 1, according to officials of the Mississippi Highway Patrol.

The first phase mandates certain regulations for installers of tinted materials and the second phase, which does not become effective until Jan. 1, 1989, allows citations to be written to motor vehicle drivers for violations of the law.

"The purpose of the law is to increase the safety of all Mississippi motorists," said Lt. Col. Billie T. Hughes, assistant Highway Patrol chief.

"When a vehicle has windows so dark that the driver cannot comfortably see out during daylight hours, the vehicle becomes unsafe for nighttime driving or for driving in the rain," he said.

The law does not prohibit the installation of the darkening materials on the windows of motor vehicles but does regulate the density of the tint material that may be installed.

Hughes said installers may use tinted material with a visible light transmission of 35 percent or greater and a visible light reflectance of 20 percent or less.

After Friday, any installer of tinted film or other darkening material on the windows or windshields of motor vehicles may be fined up to $1,000, or imprisoned for up to three months, if they cause a vehicle to be in violation of this law.

The new law states that no person shall drive any motor vehicle required to be registered in Mississippi, with any window so tinted or darkened, that the interior of the vehicle is so obscured that it cannot be readily seen.

"Additionally, the new legislation requires the use of an approved compliance label indicating that the film meets the standards set forth in the law," he added.

"No motor vehicle inspection sticker will be issued after Jan. 1, 1989, for a vehicle with a tinted or darkened material on its windshield or windows unless it meets the density specifications of the law, and bears a label certifying that it complies with these specifications," the assistant chief said.

Hughes said any motorist with a vehicle currently meeting the new standards must obtain a compliance label prior to Jan. 1, 1989, from any professional window tint installer.

"There are some vehicles that are exempt from this law," Hughes said.

"These include school buses, the buses used for public transportation, any bus or van owned or leased by a nonprofit organization duly incorporated under the laws of the state of Missisissippi and any limousine owned or leased by a private or public entity.

"This law also does not apply to any other motor vehicle, the windows of which have been tinted or darkened before factory delivery as permitted by federal law or federal regulations," said Hughes.

Persons who drive a vehicle in violation of the new law, if convicted, may be fined up to $100 and/or imprisoned for up to 10 days for the first offense.

A second time offender, within a year of the first conviction, may be fined up to $200 and/or imprisoned for up to 20 days, while a person who violates the law for the third time, during the same year, may receive a fine of up to $500 and/or be imprisoned for up to six months.

"Mississippians should consider the penalties of this law and take it seriously," said Hughes.

"Highway Patrol troopers and police officers from municipalities with populations of 2,000 or more will begin issuing citations for violations of this law on Jan. 1, 1989," he said.

They were sponsored by Senator Gene Taylor of Bay St. Louis. Kersanac is daughter of Dorothy Kersanac and Joe Kersanac, both of Bay St. Louis, and a graduate of Our Lady Academy. Duplicate file discovery may allow new veteran disability claims Recent discovery of duplicate military medical records by the National Archives will enable thousands of World War II and Korean Conflict Army and Air Corps veterans to file for Veterans Administration disability compensation payments, according to Jeff R. Ryker, director of the Jackson VA Regional Office.

To speed these claims, the VA has introduced special procedures, collectively called Project Expedite, which involves a massive cross-checking of files to determine cases that can be reopened.

Using the new records, VA benefits counselors now hope to assist many veterans whose claims had been denied because no record was available to confirm medical disabilities that occurred during military service.

Mississippi veterans and survivors unsure whether their VA compensation claims are affected should contact the Jackson VA Regional Office. The statewide toll-free number is 1-800-682-5270.

Those living in the Gulf Coast area may call 432-5996.

The National Archives and Records Administration on June 17 advised the VA that it had located a collection of computer tape containing some 10 million Army medical records that partially fill a gap created when a 1973 fire destroyed millions of military files at a federal warehouse in St. Louis.

The newly found records cover the years from 1942 to 1945 and from 1950 to 1954.

For certain veterans whose claims for disability compensation were denied since the fire, the VA may now be able to establish documentary evidence to support their claims.

The St. Louis fire destroyed or seriously damaged some 18 million service records, making future disability claims difficult and, in some cases, impossible to process.

The newly found medical records were provided to the National Archives by the National Research Council, a private organization that had been engaged in analysis of Army hospital records in the 1950s.

The computerized information reflects battle injuries treated in Army hospitals and a sample of hospitalizations for other reasons.

The records cover personnel who served in the Army and Army Air Corps.

Local agent tops $700,000 sales mark

Deborah Alford, a sales associate with ERA Bayshore Realty, has topped the $700,000 mark in sales for 1988.

She is the third associate with ERA Bayshore to achieve more than $700,000 in sales this year, said herb Dubuisson, president of the company. "ERA Real Estate's training and management programs, computer capabilities, and home protection plans have been a major factor in Alford's success," Dubuisson added.

Tim's Auto Tips

A vital factor in assuring long, trouble-free engine life is keeping oil clean and up to level. Engine rebuilders report the majority of their business comes from high-mileage drivers who run cars too far without changing oil. The detergent additive found in most motor oils is an effective cleaning agent that holds minute particles of dirt and grit in suspension until they're deposited in the filter. For this reason the filter should be replaced each time the oil is changed, thereby avoiding contamination of fresh oil with the contents of the old filter. Also remember that "bargain" oils or filters can become expensive when they lead to engine failure.

'Tis said that Ben Franklin himself, that innovator of innovators so many years ago, was the American who started the tradition of the Fourth of July picnic or other outdoor feasts or buffet in celebration of the holiday.

And, as you might well surmise, it all came about because of Franklin's super-thrifty nature, "penny saved—penny earned" and all that, remember?

It was on a sultry summer day in Paris (where Franklin was serving as our country's ambassador to France) that he found himself faced with the task of offering hospitality in our country's name on Independence Day—and faced also with the prospect of feeding far more guests than his Paris headquarters or budget could possibly accommodate at a lavish seated banquet.

Ever resourceful—especially in matters of the pocketbook—and ever imaginative, Franklin offered his guests a sort of stand-up manage-your-own-plate and such buffet, on the grounds of his Paris home.

The buffet was such a success that it was soon copied by other hosts and hostesses (perhaps with the same space-money problems?) or so we are told. And, as we all know, the picnic or barbecue is still very much a favorite along our Coast on the Fourth of July as well as other times.

Beef brisket or ribs or chuck roast are among my favorites for the grill, as are pork chops and chicken. But, why not go really Gulf Coast style and serve:

BARBECUED CRABS

(This is one of those "it depends" recipes—it depends upon the number of crabs you've managed to acquire (my catches haven't been so good lately, have yours?) and whether you plan to use the crabs as appetizers while awaiting the ribs or chicken, or whether you plan the crabs or other seafood as the main course.)

At any rate, marinate the cleaned hard-shell crabs (break the bodies in half, of course) in the sauce of your choice. I prefer a simple sauce of melted butter, chopped fresh parsley, white wine, with generous splashes of Tabasco or other hot pepper sauce, and lemon and hearty grindings of pepper fresh from the mill.

Place the marinated crabs on the grill, brush with the sauce, and watch very carefully—for, as you know, I'm sure, crabs and shrimp cook quickly, and the cardinal sin of seafood cookery is overcooking! Serve with hot French bread for "mopping up." (I use garlic in my marinade also, but some cooks object to the pungency!)

Here's another delicious seafood marinade: Combine a cup of beer, a couple of tablespoons of Worcestershire sauce, a goodly splash of Tabasco and a tablespoon of fresh lemon juice with a third cup of oil, the same of vinegar, along with pepper, salt and herbs of your choice. (Or, take the easy way out—open a bottle of Italian salad dressing, or even barbecue sauce if you opt for the tomato taste for the crabs.)

And—try barbecued soft shells, too. Heavily!

Navy flag officer to receive star

Captain James E. Koehr will become the first Navy flag officer to head an operational command in Mississippi when he dons his star on Friday in 10 a.m. ceremonies at the Stennis Space Center.

Koehr will be frocked to the rank of rear admiral (lower half). This is equivalent to the rank of brigadier general in the Army, Air Force and Marine Corps.

Koehr will continue in his post as Commander, Naval Oceanography Command. His headquarters is at the Stennis Space Center in Hancock County.

The decision to put a flag officer in the post was made by the Secretary of the Navy in December 1987.

A special board was convened in February to review records of Navy captains with oceanographic specialties to select the best qualified for promotion to rear admiral. The board made its recommendation to Navy officials who in turn forwarded a recommendation to the White House.

On April 1, Senator John C. Stennis announced that President Reagan nominated Koehr for the promotion. In his statement, Stennis said, "This announcement is a very meaningful elevation both for Captain Koehr and naval oceanography. We've been working for this elevation in the command post there for over ten years."

In Navy terminology, frocking means that an officer or enlisted member is authorized to wear the uniform and use the title of the next higher grade for which the member has been selected.

The member who has been frocked is entitled to all privileges of the higher grade except those entitlements restricted by law.

Frocking to the grades of captain and below is automatically authorized when certain conditions covered in Navy directives have been met. Frocking to a flag rank requires specific individual authorization by the Chief of Naval Personnel. Frocking of a flag officer, when it is authorized, is not effected until the appointment has been confirmed by the Senate.

Koehr has been commander of the Naval Oceanography

Command since December 1984. He heads a worldwide organization composed of over 2,900 officers, enlisted, and civilian personnel at some 65 locations.

Two of its field activities, including the Naval Oceanographic Office and the Naval Oceanography Command Facility Bay St. Louis, are also located at the Space Center.

The Command provides oceanographic, meteorological and hydrographic services to U.S. Naval forces throughout the world.

News brief

Absentee ballots for the Southern District Highway Commissioner Special Election are now being accepted at the Hancock County Circuit Clerk's office.

Hancock County Election Commission President Charles Gottschalk said the office will also be open on two Saturdays, July 9 and July 16, from 8 a.m. until noon for absentee voting.

The special election will be July 23 and will fill the vacancy created by resignation of former Southern District Highway Commissioner Bob Joiner.

Museum seeks snake

Roger Weill, curator of ichthyology and herpetology for the Museum of Natural Science in Jackson, is seeking information on a snake reportedly found in Bay St. Louis on a road near Bay Senior High School.

Weill said he received a call Tuesday from a Louisiana resident who said he and a Bay St. Louis man had found the snake Sunday or Monday. The curator said the caller stated that the Bay St. Louis resident had agreed to try to have the snake identified.

According to Weill, some of the coloration and other characteristics the caller described indicated that the snake was of a cobra variety and was not a species native to this area.

The museum is interested in obtaining further information regarding the find and would consider adding the snake to its collection. Weill can be reached at 924-7370.

St. Ann Church News

By Virginia Thomas

A thought for meditation from our pastor Father Lambert Stack, ST.

"We haven't made much progress on solar energy which is all the more reason to salute the Sun for coming to work every day whether it is needed or not...thanks to its Creator."

—Anonymous

Mrs. Karen Williams, St. Ann-St. John Parish adult advisor, and CYO members wish to extend their thanks and appreciation to everyone who ordered sandwiches and all those who contributed to the success of the group's recent po-boy sale.

The group is presently busy collecting for the Saltillo Missions. There is a large box placed in the rear of St. Ann and St. John Churches for donations of beads, soap, needles, thread, combs, some of the shelf medical supplies, etc.

These items are badly needed for the poor of Father Quinn's Missions. Monetary donations are also most welcome.

Two of our parish CYO members will accompany the group from Bay St. Louis to Saltillo in the middle of July.

According to Mrs. Williams there will be no CYO meetings in July. Next meeting is scheduled for 7 p.m. Aug. 1 in the parish hall.

For the month of July Mrs. Christian Neuhig will be in charge of the offertory procession each Saturday during the 5 p.m. Vigil Mass.

Kids fishing rodeo set for Saturday

BY ELLIS CUEVAS

The Clement R. Bontemps American Legion Post No. 139's Fourth Annual Kids Fishing Rodeo will be held Saturday at the Legion's Memorial Pier, Beach Boulevard and Washington Street.

Roy Dedeaux, rodeo chairman said, "The scales will open at 7 a.m. and close at 3 p.m. sharp and the rodeo is open to boys and girls aged 13 and under."

The fishing limits are from the mouth of the Jourdan River to Bayou Cadet with fishing from piers and shoreline only,

Dedeaux emphasized, with 'no boat fishing.'

Registration is free and begins at 7 a.m. at the rodeo's headquarters at the Legion pier.

"Every registrant will receive a coke and a hamburger or hot dog. There will be drawings for all types of prizes after the scales close," Dedeaux said.

A drawing will be held for participants for fishing gear, cast nets and two $50 savings bonds, winners must be present.

Participants will be divided by ages with prizes for first, second, third and fourth place for each category.

Prizes will be trophies, rods and reels, cast nets, dip nets, crab nets, tackle boxes, etc.

Categories will include, speckle trout, red fish, croaker, flounder, white trout, ground mullet, smallest fish, crab and largest fish.

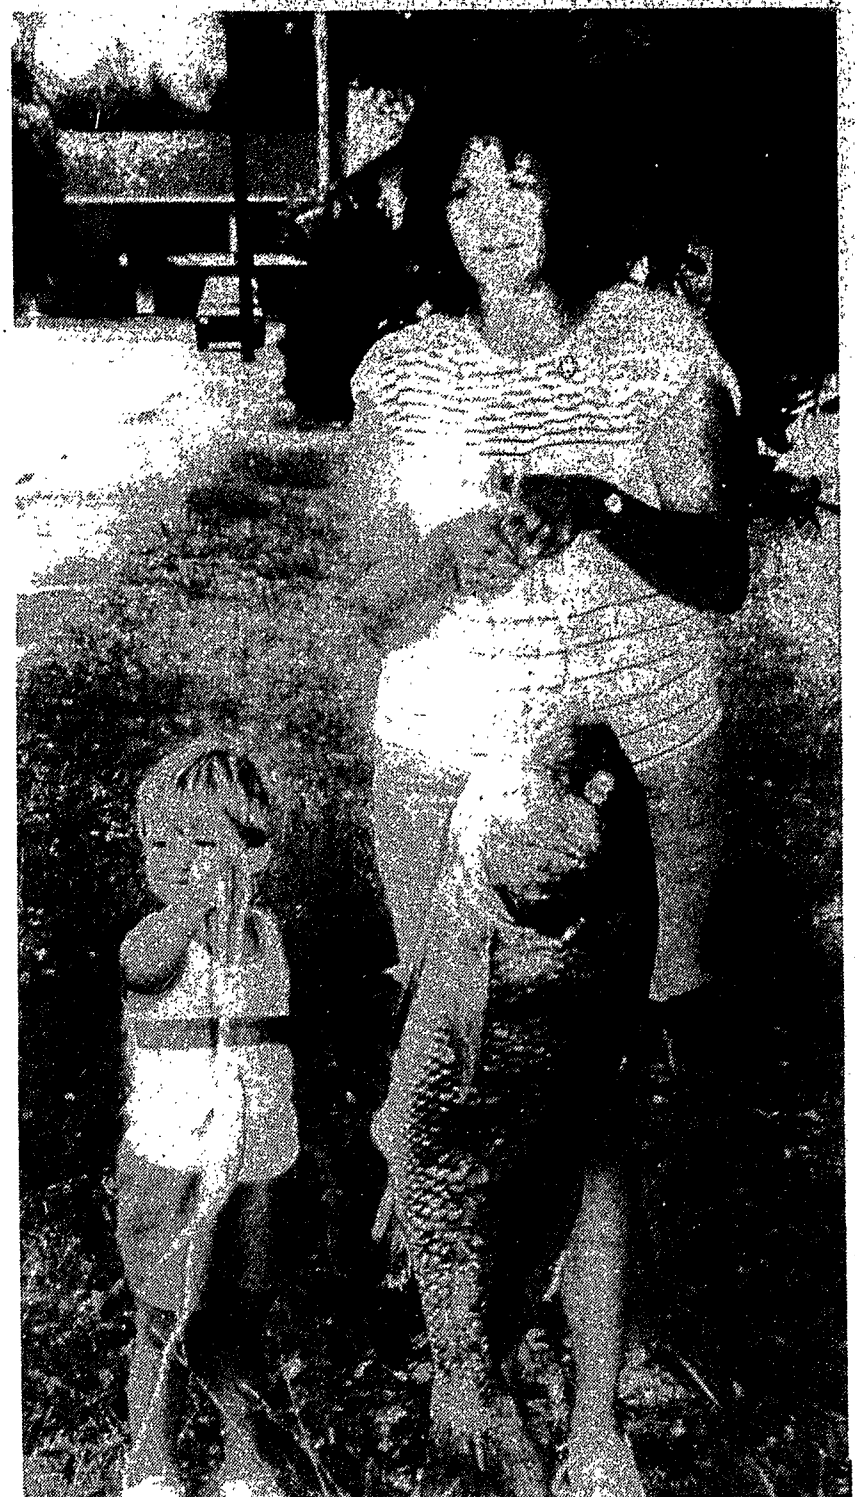

Crabs can be caught by net, fish must be caught hook and line only, Dedeaux said.

Dedeaux added, "No catfish or stingrays will be accepted."

Henry Prevou, post commander said, "This is a family affair and it is hope many parents will join their children during the rodeo."

Prevou added, "The Legion's pier and launch will be closed from 6 a.m. to 4 p.m. for the safety of the children during the rodeo."

Members of the Legion will man the scales and help the fishermen and Auxiliary members will help with the food and refreshments.

THE FIRST AND THE LARGEST—Nicholas Wiennmann shows off his first fish, a croaker, while his Mother Mary holds the largest fish she's caught, a 35 pound black drum. Mary landed the drum on 20 pound test line with shrimp for bait and Nicholas was using his "Snoopy fishing pole". The fish were caught in Jourdan River. (Echo staff photo by D.C. Harvill)

The stolen base has long been a part of baseball with Hall of Famer Ty Cobb, the master of stealing home, and former St. Louis Cardinal great Lou Brock, another Hall of Famer, the all-time leader in stolen bases at the top of the base-stealing list. But there have probably never been as many great basestealers as there are in the 1980's.

Vince Coleman opened his career by having three consecutive seasons of stealing 100 or more bases, a streak that is still active. Rickey Henderson, now of the New York Yankees, set the single season stolen base mark with 130 in 1982 while with the Oakland A's, and, barring injury, Henderson could threaten his mark this season; he averaged a stolen base per game for the first month of the season. Montreal's Tim Lincecum is another speedster taking aim at the record books, even though his stolen base marks have gone down in recent years (Raines is concentrating more on power). Gerald Young of Houston is the emerging star of the basestealers, jumping out to the early lead in the National League race in his first full season. Young has an added advantage of playing in the spacious Astrodome where the stolen base is more a part of the offense than the home run.

A good basestealer can be more dangerous than a power hitter. Players like Coleman and Henderson have an effect on the entire infield when they are on base. Even if they don't steal a base, they are responsible for disrupting the pitcher's concentration and at times causing infielders to be out of position, allowing a teammate to get a hit through the vacated area. The stolen base is a central part of the game, as important as the home run. In time players like Coleman, Raines and Henderson will move on; there will be players to take their places. The faces will change, but the stolen base will remain the same.

FISHIN' TIPS FROM THE HUMMINBIRD PROS

by Larry Colombo

Deep running crankbaits will catch a lot of big fish in the summer time when fished properly. Lures designed to run 20 feet or more are excellent choices for summer lunkers.

A deep diving crankbait will reach its maximum depth when the following steps are followed. First, make a long cast, then hold the rod tip down, within inches of the water surface. Next, retrieve the lure at a moderate speed. Do not crank fast, as that does not allow the lure to reach its maximum depth. Finally, line size governs the depth a lure will run. Ten to twelve pounds test monofilament is recommended for best depths. Anything heavier will lessen the depth a crankbait will run.

A lure which does not run straight and true can be tuned by grasping the front lip and with a pair of needle-nose pliers, bend the screw eye in the lip to the opposite direction from which it is running off. A little practice makes perfect here.

Fish are bunched in deep water during this period. Deep structure will hold the bigger fish. Depth Sounders with fish alarms will help find the schools.

Watch the sun. Fish early morning or late evening and be sure to use a good sunscreen if you are on the water during mid-day periods. Polarized sunglasses not only protect the eyes, but allow visual penetration into the water.

Hank Parker suggests an occasional hand full of ice tossed into the live-well will help keep your fish alive and well.

Tips from the Humminbird Pros are presented by Humminbird, Eufaula, Alabama. Good Fishing with America's #1 Depth Sounder.

Firefighters train with real fire

Bay St. Louis Firefighter Gary Maurice sprays the side of a house next door to the burning structure as a precaution against possible heat damage.

Volunteer Randy Fraley and Bay St. Louis Firefighter Arthur Farve observe as smoke begins to come through the roof of the house.

Mike Smith of Waveland Fire Department carries an air tank for a breathing apparatus used during the training exercise.

A Washington Street property owner needed an old house demolished and local firefighters needed a place to practice their skills.

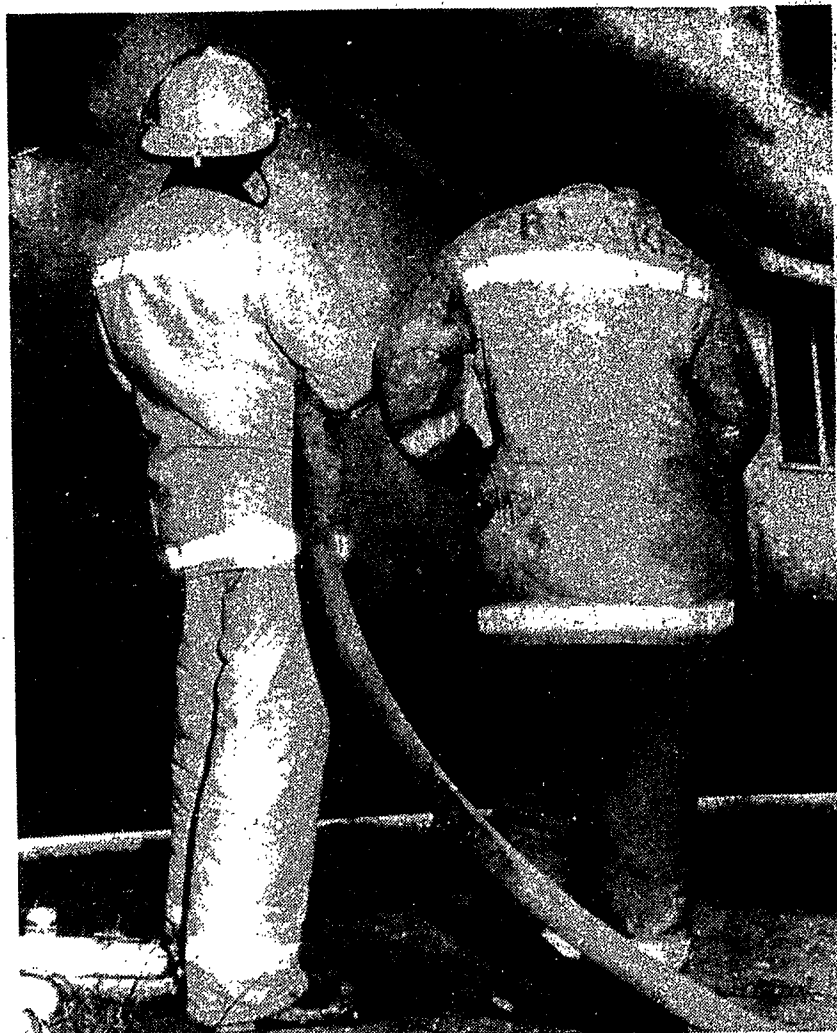

On Saturday, the two needs were combined to provide a training session for local firefighters from three professional departments, Bay St. Louis, Waveland and Diamondhead; and a number of volunteer departments from BaySide Park, East Hancock and other parts of the county.

Mike Willumitis, who serves as training officer for the Bay St. Louis Fire Department, conducted the class with assistance from A.J. Scardino of Pass Christian, an instructor with the National Association of Arson Investigators.

First, small fires were set in the house, which had been donated to the city. Temperature was monitored until it reached about 2,000 degrees, then groups of firefighters were allowed to go into the structure to practice assaults on the flames.

Use of breathing apparatus and related gear was also included in the training, Willumitis said.

After the training was completed, the house was allowed to burn in order to allow the lot to be cleared for new construction, but firefighters remained on the scene to keep the blaze under control.

Bay St. Louis Training Officer Mike Willumitis, who conducted the class, and Bay St. Louis Fire Chief Andrew Lizana light one of the practice fires in the house.

READING IS SMART FUN

Episcopal Elementary focuses on fun, adventure of library

Coast Episcopal Elementary School in Bay St. Louis celebrated National Library Week with a variety of activities to focus attention on libraries and the fun and adventure they offer.

Events and contests, such as Name That Book, the Costume of My Favorite Book Character, and a play "The Wonder World of Books," were offered to children in all age groups.

A Book Fair was held in conjunction with National Library Week and offered for sale, paperbacks of the classics as well as other award-winning books for children.

Mrs. Beate Mann, CEES librarian, said that a Read-A-

Brooke Hartwell reads the story of Black Beauty.

Sharing the book in the CEES library are Lauren Stonecipher, Terry Fulford, Eleanore Bernadas, Chris Dauterive, and Kyle Edrington.

Thon was conducted and raised over $600 for the Multiple Sclerosis Foundation. The winners were first place Kkyle Mann, second grade; second place Aimee Hocutt, sixth grade; and third place Vanessa Pierce, sixth grade.

The library at Coast Episcopal is used daily by all classes, including storytime for the younger children and research time by the older ones, said Mrs. Mann. The hub of our curriculum centers in the library. It all works together, said Mrs. Mann.

Incoming students, parents invited to UM campus in July

Incoming students and their parents are invited to acquire a taste of campus life at the University of Mississippi this summer in special conferences to be held in July.

Counseling and pre-registration conferences for incoming students are scheduled for July 17-19 and July 24-26. Parents' Days are scheduled for July 17-19 and July 24-25. Conference activities for students include testing sessions to help determine career interests, orientational and instructional meetings, test interpretation, individual counseling and preparation of a class schedule for fall semester, academic advising and pre-registration.

Two special programs are included for both incoming freshmen and transfer students.

The conference fee of $40 includes housing in a university residence hall and a Sunday night meal.

Parents will have access to information on academic programs as well as to key personnel to assist them while their children are attending Ole Miss. The $25 fee includes meals but not housing. Housing may be reserved by calling the Alumni House (campus motel) at (601) 234-2331.

Both Counseling/Pre-Registration and Parents' Day conferences are sponsored by the Ole Miss Student Development Center. For information on registration call toll-free in Mississippi 1-800-222-5102 or (601) 232-7021.

USM will administer Coast Research Lab

HATTIESBURG—President Aubrey K. Lucas has predicted University of Southern Mississippi administration of the Gulf Coast Research Laboratory will bear long-term academic and economic fruit for both institutions and the coastal region.

"It will foster more active programs of joint research," Lucas said of the state College Board's approval, earlier in the day in Jackson, of an inter-agency agreement that vests administrative control of the Ocean Springs-based research lab with USM.

"It is essentially a vote of confidence by the board in the University of Southern Mississippi," the president told a late afternoon news conference after returning to the USM campus from Jackson.

He said USM will be in a better position to seek financial support for the lab at the federal and state levels of government; and can make available to the lab extensive library holdings, super computer capabilities and various other resources of the comprehensive university.

"I think in the long term, it will assist us in developing a world-class program in marine science," he said, noting USM's highly acclaimed marine science program presently operates out of facilities at the National Space Technology Laboratories in Hancock County.

"I also think the research laboratory, coupled with resources of the university, can very definitely be a force for positive economic development of the Mississippi Gulf Coast," added Lucas, predicting accelerated research efforts aimed at developing seafood markets and examining ecological issues related to the Mississippi Sound.

"Economic development certainly has to be one of the primary considerations as we look at the future of the lab in relation to USM," Lucas said.

"I think we'll see the laboratory obtaining resources to give even greater attention to issues now facing the Gulf Coast—such as continuing to develop seafood markets, and issues related to the delicate ecology of the Mississippi Sound and the near shore areas," he added.

Lucas said Dr. Harold Howse, who has headed the research lab for the past 18 years, has agreed to continue to serve as director during a "first year of transition," during which the university will conduct an international search for a permanent director. He said the lab will not operate as a part of the USM-Gulf Coast campuses, but its director will report directly to Lucas.

The research lab includes a work force of some 140 employees, about two-thirds of whom are involved in scientific research, and had a total operating budget this fiscal year of $5,341,487. It has operated as an independent component of the state's university system, answerable only to the College Board.

The lab is funded by a combination of state higher education appropriation, and grants and contracts from federal governmental agencies, as well as from private business and industry. The facility received a state appropriation of $2,727,193 for the present fiscal year and got an 8.78 percent funding boost to $2,966,667 for the new fiscal year that starts July 1.

The university's Center for Marine Science, now located at NSTL, was designated as one of three USM "Centers of Excellence" by the College Board in 1982.

CONSUMER UPDATE

How much debt can you afford?

By Janet K. Lukens
Area Consumer
Management Specialist
Learning your limits on how much debt you can afford can be one of the most crucial steps in managing your finances.

Everyone's financial situation is different but there are some signals which can indicate that you are using too much credit.

Be careful if some of the following warning signs apply to you:

1. All you pay is the minimum payments on credit cards and charge accounts.
2. You count on overtime to pay the regular bills.
3. You've reached the limits on your charge accounts.
4. You are not saving any money and have to dip into savings to pay bills.
5. You don't know how much you owe.
6. You are charging groceries and other basic needs.
7. You are putting off bills until the next month.

If any of these are true of your situation, stop now and make some simple changes to your money management system.

If you are not able to handle to situation yourself, seek assistance.

Sources of assistance may be found through the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

GREEN TORTOISE—A group of English Language Institute students from the University of Delaware, on a 28 day tour of the United States, take a break recently near the American Legion Pier. Nationalities represented by the group of 26 students include Japan, United Arab Emirates, India, Aruba, Venezuela, China, Brazil and Curacao. The group was on a tour conducted by Green Tortoise Alternative Travel of San Francisco, California. Green Tortoise usually conducts inexpensive tours to natural areas around the country, mostly in the West. This tour, however, visited more large cities than usual; they were travelling from New Orleans to Atlanta when they stopped in Bay St. Louis. According to Baerell Schumacher from Germany, an instructor on the trip, Green Tortoise Tours are more well known in Europe than in the United States. (Echo staff photo by D.C. Harvill)

New law defines roles for local libraries

A new law effective July 1 will encourage local public libraries to review operating contracts and clearly defines the responsibilities of public library trustees and administrators.

Known as the Mississippi Statewide Library Development System Act of 1988, the new policy was based on a five-month study authorized by the Mississippi Library Commission and Governor Bill Allain. The 30-member Public Library Task Force which included librarians, trustees, lawmakers and business leaders, conducted the study.

A major component of the new law requires a library system to name one board of trustees and the governing board responsible for the maintenance and operations of the library system, the annual budget, fiscal accountability, purchasing and the employment of a library director. All other library boards (such as a city board in a two-county library system) serve as advisors to the governing board.

The law also promotes contracts between advisory and governing boards," Mississippi Library Commission Director David Woodburn explained.

"this way local library boards may, through contract, continue to select books, set the hours of the library, and determine local policies, so long as these responsibilities are addressed in the contract."

Beginning July 1, public library trustees serving in a county with more than 20,000 residents will be limited to two consecutive terms on the library board of trustees. Trustees may, however, be reappointed to an additional term after a hiatus.

Trustees currently serving in a county with a population of less than 20,000 may serve unlimited terms on the board of trustees. But, future appointments will be governed by the two consecutive term limit.

"The two term limit is not retroactive," Woodburn said,

"so that a trustee could still serve up to ten more years. Then he would be required to take a break from serving on the library board, but could later be reappointed." Woodburn said this will encourage continuity in library service. The law also requires a library trustee to be a qualified elector and a resident of the city, county or region he represents.

The new law increases the flexibility of municipal and county governments to financially support public libraries. The millage levy allowable was increased to three mills for cities and four mills for counties. Public library appropriations will be exempt from the ten percent annual increase cap, and local governments may use any general funds for public library support. "This will have a very positive impact on public libraries," Woodburn explained, "because it means that cities and counties have the flexibility to fund local libraries using any funds they choose."

The legislature also established a method for the Library Commission to name a committee of 15 library trustees, public librarians and laymen to recommend accreditation standards and distribution of state funds based on the level of service provided to the community. During fiscal year 1989, the Mississippi Library Commission will disburse more than $2,688,000 in state funds to the 44 public library systems in Mississippi.
